

WOLF IN THE RANCH

By W. Edmunds Claussen

THE STORY: Returning from the Civil War, to his father's ranch in Arizona, Dave Sharadin knows that he has many enemies. Taylor Kains, his father's foreman, is determined to take over the ranch someday, and will resent Dave's returning. On the way to the ranch Dave is waylaid by Ferris, a cowboy, and now they battle with fists.

CHAPTER XVI
Dave began to lose his firmness. Ferris had earned his respect, and now Dave realized that he must get the man back to the Block S. There was water just beyond the fence Pole had built. Dave gazed toward the shanty, recalling the cool spring. A wooden flume, had been laid to bring the water into Pole's ranch yard. Dave could hear the water splashing from the end of the flume into a horse trough. He was conscious that the shanty's rear door stood ajar. Someone waited unseen in the dark.

He stopped uncertainly in his tracks, trying to pierce the blackness inside the shack. "I've got to have water," he called into the doorway.

He wasn't certain whether he'd get a bullet from the inside. But when the answer came it was pleasant. "You may have all you need."

"It had been a girl's voice," a very young girl. But no young girl would be here unprotected in these hills. He walked on to the trough, cupping his hands beneath the flume. He brought his palms upward, wetting his battered face and damping his hair. Then finally he let the water run between his lips and took a long, satisfying drink.

An empty can lay beneath the trough. He filled it in the small cascade made by the water spilling from the flume. Through all these motions his brain was turning over the reply he had received from the house. It should have been hostile. He had been expecting a bullet. For this man was poaching on Sharadin's grass and knew Block S would not stand for having its grass stolen in either large or small chunks. The very water he had asked to use had been paid for with Block S lives.

When the can was filled he returned his glance to the shack. "Thanks for the water," he called.

"Are you a Block S man?" the girl demanded.

"I am Dave Sharadin."

"You don't seem very much like the others."

She came forward two uncertain steps until the moonlight brushed her slight figure. She was no more than nine, perhaps 10. And then he was shocked by the sight of her holding a rifle. He scouted about of the sorry condition of this country.

"Are you alone here?" Dave asked.

"My father will be home directly."

"Shouldn't be by yourself this way," Dave told her, frowning.

"What's your name?"

"Melinda Pole. If you'll wait a little while my father will come back."

He paused, listening to the lonely howl of a lone wolf high on the escarpment behind the cabin. "Your father ever seen Mohaves?"

"He's not afraid, either. I saw them one time, but I'm not scared of them."

He took a long look at her standing with her rifle and then turned away carrying that image in his mind. Her father, of course, was a fool. He was a fool for being here on Sharadin range in the first place. But Me-

Union to organize them in 1953. He named the opening witness as W. W. Tudor of Chicago, vice president of Sears in charge of personnel.

Kennedy said Tudor requested an opportunity to testify as the Sears inquiry opened because the committee plans to go into Sears operations "rather extensively." He said Tudor may be the day's only witness because the committee plans an early recess until Monday.

The Sears inquiry ties closely into the operations of Nathan W. Heffernan, who heads Labor Relations Associates and who has Shefferman, who heads Labor Relations Associates.

Shefferman proposed organization of Labor Relations Associates while he was employed as a labor consultant for Sears at the retail and mail order house's Chicago headquarters.

Preliminary groundwork for the Sears inquiry was laid yesterday testimony from John Patterson Currie, New York labor relations consultant. Currie told the committee he participated in organization of LRA in 1940 after Shefferman said the load of work for Sears and its supplier companies was too heavy for the Sears labor office.

Designer Dior Dies in Italy at Age of 52

MO TECATINI, Italy (U.P.)—Christian Dior, 52-year-old king of the postwar fashion world, died early today to a heart attack while on holiday in this north Italian resort 25 miles west of Florence.

The quiet, balding and slightly paunchy creator of the revolutionary "New Look" had come to Montecatini a week ago with four friends.

He dined last night at his hotel with an unidentified Frenchwoman and after dinner retired to his third-floor room. At 11 p.m. he called for a doctor. Subsequently the local police, the Rev. Giulio Celli, was summoned.

Also at the bedside of the famed designer when he died were a local doctor, a French physician and his dinner companion.

Dior was the second of French fashion's major postwar designers to die after a brief but meteoric career. Jacques Fath succumbed three years ago, at the age of 42, of leukemia.

Dior was virtually unknown until 1947, when he burst to the forefront of the bitterly competitive fashion trade with the revolutionary longer, full skirts of his New Look. In that one season he became the dictator of high style, and never since had anyone come near topping him from his pinnacle.

Nixon Stumps for New Jersey GOPs

NEWARK, N. J. (U.P.)—Vice President Richard M. Nixon stumped New Jersey today to underscore the value the White House has placed on winning the governorship for the Republican party.

The GOP candidate, Malcolm Forbes, accompanied Nixon on a one-day whirlwind tour of key linda was not a fool. The meaning of the word, fear was simply not in her. Gravely sober he drifted slowly through the scraggy timber. Reaching the point where he had downed Ferris he sat the tin filled with water beside the man and crouched on his heels.

He dampened Ferris' brow with his water and worked some of it between Ferris' lip. The portion that remained in the tin he finally tossed over Ferris' scalp. Presently Ferris stirred. He sat upright, Dave said quietly, "Take your time, Ferris. When you're able we'll ride on to Block S."

Ferris stared at him with eyes which came slowly into register. There was no longer hatred in his look, simply a strange, half-believing curiosity. Dave expected to find ruined pride in that gaze—a challenge to "try" again until Dave was humbled. There was none of this quality about Ferris. He climbed lamely to his feet and walked in a weaving pattern.

Ferris thrust out a hand, then dropped it. "Sharadin, you'll do. All the way."

Half an hour later they were close to the Block S. Dave abruptly broke the silence. "Tell me, Ferris. What kept the old man from closing Pole out?"

Ferris' sore mouth was not slightly. "Your old man has got a weakness. Only one."

Found in his makeup. Pole's wife was dying, so Bluet held Kains off from giving them what he wanted. The Brays."

"She's dead now?"

"Yeah," Ferris made a heavy motion in his saddle. "I guess now we can go about it."

Dave recognized the facet of Bluet's character of which none of the crew would be aware. Bluet held fast to the memory of his wife. This was the sole generous human trait Dave remembered of his father.

Ferris stared at Dave with his good eye. "I'll say this. You're going to be in a jam as soon you show up at the Block S. The deck's stacked against you so high the odds can't be touched. Main men are going to put their spurs into your back."

People like everything to mean something—and perferably something exciting.

The second problem is your faithful old desk. Naturally you would prefer to open its sea-cocks and watch it sink slowly through the floor. Or at the least put a bullet through its faithful line-leum—covered forehead as you murmur, "So long, old pardner."

But it isn't permitted to scuttle or shoot to death an office desk. Your job is to clean it out—and move on.

Cleaning out my desk and file cabinets turned out to be a three-day task, and a strange and wonderful journey into the past. The things a man finds out about himself.

There were such quaint memorabilia as:

Two ticket stubs to "Tobacco Road."

Three empty aspirin boxes and a lone lost vitamin pill, pale from lack of sunshine.

Several six-cent butts of two-bit cigars, hidden away against a rainy day.

A blue and white button emblazoned "Stevenson - Kefauver."

A key to the city of Miami Beach, and a metal lifetime pass to the Cole Brothers Circus.

Also in the debris I found a roll of papers marked "Dead Sea Scrolls" and a note saying "Help get me out of here," signed, "Justice Crater."

The third problem is the disposal of your property. You are a bit surprised to find how many of your nearest neighbors secretly have coveted your wastebasket, your seat cushion and, yes, even your calendar.

You give these goodies away, say farewell to your pals, pat your fine old sylvan chair on its loyal shoulders, stifle a tear and march out.

"Sixth floor, please," you say as you step into the elevator.

It is only 75 feet as the territe crawls from your old desk to your new desk, but in a modern office that can be the difference between Earth and Mars.

As the elevator mounts you are aware you have left one world behind you forever, and you wonder what the new world will be like on the new floor.

with them on the part of the federal government.

"Unless this scheme is abandoned immediately it will jeopardize or destroy morale of members of the National Guard throughout the nation."

"For the above reason I demand that the National Guardsmen still federalized in Arkansas be returned immediately to their former status of Arkansas citizen soldiers."

"Today I am wiring Sen. Russell (D-Ga.), chairman of the Senate Armed Services Committee, urging that his committee investigate this flagrant and unwarranted evasion of the selective Service law enacted by the Congress."

LITTLE ROCK (U.P.)—Chances of a solution to the Central High School integration dilemma appeared somewhat brighter today.

Gov. Orval Faubus has revealed that "certain moves" are being made which could result in mediation of the federal-state deadlock.

Previously, Faubus had said that only the withdrawal of the nine Negro students who attend the 2,000-pupil school could end the crisis.

A definite sign of reduced tension is the new Army policy of allowing the three Negro boys and six girls to cross the campus without a military escort.

Army and school officials said yesterday that if all went well six soldiers now on guard inside Central High might be pulled out. Although troops still would remain outside the building.

In his statement about mediation yesterday, Faubus gave no details and declined to say who was making the moves, he said only that he was taking no part in them.

The governor said certain factors led him to hope there was "a definite possibility of a change in the attitude of the Eisenhower administration" and that something might develop in a week or 10 days.

Faubus called out the Arkansas National Guard Sept. 2 and the troops kept the Negroes from entering Central High. After U. S. District Court enjoined him from interfering with integration, the governor withdrew the Guardsmen.

Rioting broke out the first day the Negroes entered Central High and to next day, Sept. 24, President Eisenhower sent in federal paratroopers and federalized the State Guard.

Since then, about half the original contingent of 1,000 troopers from the 101st Airborne Division have returned to their base at Ft. Campbell, Ky. Some 8,500 Guardsmen have been defederalized, leaving 1800 on duty.

Faubus said yesterday that he might accept all the Guardsmen back under his command but was unwilling at present to take only part of them.

In a news conference yesterday the governor declared that U. S. Atty. Gen. Hebert Brownell, was chiefly responsible for the Eisenhower administration's decision to send federal troops into Little Rock to enforce integration.

He charged that the FBI, under Brownell, became "a political arm rather than the impartial enforcement agency it had been in the past."

Rep. Brooks Hays (D-Ark.), who since acted as a mediator between President Eisenhower and Faubus, said here yesterday that he had hoped for a change in Justice Department policies on Little Rock after Brownell resigned this week.

Hays said, however, that he thought the new attorney general—William P. Rogers—"will continue with the Brownell policy."

Hays added that he thought the people, and not the Justice Department, would have to work together in finding a solution to the integration dispute.

Verser - Ross

In the first wedding performed in the First Baptist Mission Church of Hope, Miss Jimmie Dean Verser became the bride of Lonnie Gilbert Ross at seven thirty o'clock, Saturday evening, Oct. 18, 1957. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Newton Verser, of Heber Springs and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Lonnie Lee Ross of Hope.

The Rev. Gus Poole of Bearden, uncle of the bride, assisted by Rev. James Hunt, performed the impressive double ring ceremony before a background of cathedral candelabra and interspersed with greenery and holding white tapers and flanked with standards of white gladioli.

Freddie and Allan Verser, nephews of the bride were candlelighters. Miss Marlene Powell provided the traditional wedding music.

The bride, given in marriage by her brother, Buel Verser, wore a ballerina length gown of white slipper satin, fashioned with a fitted bodice featuring a sweetheart neckline, tiny sleeves and a bouffant skirt. Her illusion veil fell from a tiny white satin hat and she carried a white Bible topped with a cascade of white carnations and lilies of the valley.

Mrs. Turman Wright of Odessa, Texas and niece of the bride, was honor attendant. She wore a dusty rose dress featuring a wide dusty blue sash that fell to the hemline in the back. Her flowers were matching blue carnations.

Hubert Ross served his brother as best man.

For her daughters wedding, Mrs. Verser chose a light grey suit with black accessories, and wore a pink carnation corsage. Mrs. Ross, the bridegrooms mother, wore a beige suit with red accessories and her corsage was of bronze chrysanthemums.

Immediately following the wedding, a reception was held in the church. The brides table was covered with white, not over white linen and centered with a low table arrangement of white chrysanthemums. The tiered cake was topped with a miniature bride and groom. Serving were Mrs. Cecil Bittie, sister of the bride, Mrs. Buel Verser, sister-in-law of the bride and Mrs. Forrest Ross, sister-in-law of the groom. Miss Vian Ross, sister of the groom, was in charge of the guest book. Assisting were Mrs. Hervey Hall, Mrs. Elmer Smith and Miss Virginia McRoy.

For travel the bride wore a powder blue wool suit dress with white accessories and a corsage of white carnations. Following a short trip, Mr. and Mrs. Ross are at home in Hope.

Stover at Yale Proved a Good Omnibus Show

By HALL MERCER

NEW YORK (U) — An excellent example of first-rate entertainment was "Stover at Yale," the initial offering of "Omnibus" as it returned for a sixth season.

In years past boys read Owen Johnson's story about Dink Stover as an entertaining yarn. "Omnibus" (NBC-TV, alternate Sundays), reviving Johnson's basic purpose in writing the story, asked its viewers to find something of more than historical interest in it.

"Stover at Yale," in Douglas Wallop's excellent script, had something timelessly worthwhile to say about courage and snobbery. It was a highly successful attainment despite a slight initial burden associates placed on their viewers.

The 90-minute drama with music was played as a period piece, circa 1910. We were asked to feel that the characters sincerely believed in the attitudes they assumed—and we did come to feel that they did.

Quite quickly, however, one fell in step with this unusual dramatic pace. One both enjoyed the quaint humor and found worthwhile human substance in the optimistic, credulous attitudes of a half century ago.

Another welcome addition to Sunday viewing pleasure is "Twentieth Century," a new series on the moon and ideas that characterize this century (CBS-TV Sundays).

Six Winston Churchill was the subject of the first documentary of the series. His biography was told straight forwardly from birth to retirement.

Anthony Quinn Happy to Be Directing

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (U) — Happiest man in Hollywood today is Anthony Quinn who has finally achieved his long ambition of directing a picture. He has the reins on the remark of "the Buccaneer," in which he played a small role 20 years ago.

What's more he's starting out first class — the picture will cost a mere $4,000,000. I caught him in between sprints around the crowded set and asked if his boss, Cecil B. DeMille, was worried about him.

"I guess not," Tony replied. "After I got the picture started, he took off for Europe." DeMille is also his father-in-law.

"This won't be the last picture Tony will direct," said a member of the cast, Charles Boyer. "I think

Help Your Star Boy in Contest

Mr. and Mrs. Hope Star customer, now is your chance to help your favorite Hope Star paper boy by telling your neighbor who is not taking the Hope Star about the citywide contest that is now being held.

Just think, all these boys are in business for themselves, buying wholesale and selling retail. During this contest the boys are being given a bonus that grows with each start. Look for one of these boys listed below to come by your house soon:

he's going to be one of the really important directors in films."

But two-time Oscar winner Quinn isn't giving up acting. His next assignment will be on the other side of the camera. . . . Frank Sinatra and Lauren Bacall had their first formal outing together in Hollywood society at Frank's party at the Villa Capri after the preview of "Pal Joey."

Naturally, this added more fuel to the romance rumors. It's nobody's business but their own, but the fact remains that Betty and Frank are ideally suited to each other. They think alike artistically and politically (Democratic), they travel in the same circle and they're both lonely.

"Pal Joey" is further evidence that the production code is becoming more elastic. Some of the cracks are as racy as any heard in films of recent vintage. Biggest laugh came when Kim Novak asked Sinatra if he could cook.

"Sure," he replied. "A fellow can't live on Wheelies alone."

Local audiences are startled to see Richard Rober in the cast of the recently released "Jet Pilot." Rober's presence demonstrates the age of the film. He was killed May 20 1952, in an automobile crash.

Thief Steals From His Psychiatrist

SOUTH SHIELDS, England (U) — The Juvenile Court sent a 16-year-old petty thief to a psychiatrist recently in the hope of finding out what made him steal.

The youth was back in court yesterday, accused of stealing one pound — $2.80 — from the London psychiatrist's purse during their consultations.

Newscaster to Appeal Fine, Jail Sentence

LAFORTE, Ind. (UP) — A radio newscaster fined $250 and sentenced to 5 days in jail today planned an appeal of his conviction for broadcasting a recorded interview with an accused slayer.

Special Judge Harry Long levied the sentence Wednesday against Jean LaGrange, a former state legislator and newscaster for radio station WLFI in LaPorte.

LaGrange was convicted on a charge of direct contempt of court for broadcasting a taped interview with Robert Lee Johnson, 31, during the latter's trial for murder.

The broadcast resulted in a mistrial in Johnson's case.

LaGrange was freed on $1,000 appeal bond and Long agreed to a hearing today on a defense motion to reconsider the sentence.

Defense attorney Thomas Gavitt said if the court overrules the motion, "I will be prepared to take steps which will result in this matter progressing through the Supreme Court of Indiana."

LaGrange declined to comment on the sentence on advice of his counsel.

In sentencing the newscaster, Long said: "Your broadcast reflected upon the court as an institution and upon the arms of the court which make it an institution. Among these arms are the judge, the lawyers for the defense and the lawyers for the state. This broadcast constituted a clear and present danger to the administration of justice in this case."

Schine Weds Former Miss Universe

NEW YORK (U) — G. David Schine, former investigator for the late Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy (R-Wis.), and Miss Hillevi Romlin of Sweden were married here last night.

The ceremony was performed by Rabbi Jonah Wise at Central Synagogue in Manhattan.

It was the first marriage for the 30-year-old Schine and the 24-year-old Swedish blonde beauty.

They will live in Miami Beach, Fla.

The bride was Miss Universe in 1955. She won her title at Long Beach, Calif., July 22 of that year.

Schine was the central figure in the celebrated Army-McCarthy hearings in 1954.

The hearings revolved around an Army charge that McCarthy used improper pressure to get favors for the wealthy draftsman, now a civilian. McCarthy denied it.

Peter Stuyvesant, governor of New York City, from 1646 to 1664, lost his famous leg in a skirmish in the Netherlands West Indies.

Rock Hudson, Dana Wynter Co-Star in Explosive Drama of the Mau Mau Uprising

Rock Hudson nearly strangles his wife (Dana Wynter) unknowingly as he awakens from a nightmare, following his return from a Mau Mau hunt. The scene is from "Something of Value," M-G-M filmization of Robert C. Ruark's explosive novel dealing with the Mau Mau uprisings in Kenya, East Africa, where much of the picture was filmed on location.

The spellbinding excitement and fascinating backdrop of Robert Ruark's best-seller novel, "Something of Value," have been captured on the screen in M-G-M's impressive motion picture version of this explosive story of racial turmoil in East Africa.

With Rock Hudson and Dana Wynter in its starring roles, the picture, photographed in part on location against authentic settings in the Kenya Colony, ranging from steamy jungles to two-mile high mountains, starts Sunday at the Sanger theater, as one of the year's outstanding movies.

Tracing the rise of the dreaded Mau Mau organization, and its ruthless attempt to drive the white man out of Africa, the story of "Something of Value" centers on the friendship of Peter McKenzie, son of a pioneer family, and Kimani, an African native. Although they were raised almost as brothers, when Kimani is humiliated by the intolerance of the whites, he is driven to become a leader of the Mau Mau and to take the blood oath to murder and slaughter.

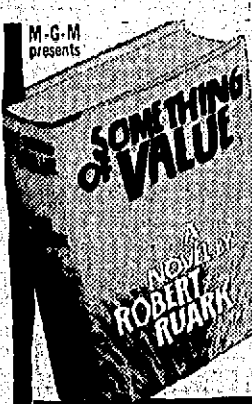

The fearful carnage of the terrorists changes Peter McKenzie from a man with respect and sympathy for the natives to an avenger determined to match terror with terror, a transformation which brings about a rift in his relations with his young wife, Holly, who implores him to take her away from Africa. But Peter cannot run away, and he plays an important role in the events which lead to the round-up of the Mau Mau leaders and the eventual quelling of their atrocities. In the end Peter tracks down the fleeing Kimani to his hiding place in the mountains and the savage struggle which culminates in Kimani's death is a symbolic climax to the conflict between white and black. Peter takes Kimani's little son back to his father's farm to what he hopes will be a new life free from racial hatreds.

Scene after scene of this starkly realistic drama holds the spectator spellbound in its depiction of the strange superstitions and witchcraft of the Africans, the underground movements of the Mau Maus, the frenzy of their attacks on the white settlers and their final downfall. The shots of the wild beasts, an episode in which Peter saves the life of Kimani, and the frightening ceremony of the induction into the Mau Mau ranks are other thrilling highlights of this picture, which never lets up in its absorbing action.

The roles are played with perception. Rock Hudson gives an admirable portrait of a tolerant man driven to become an avenger. Dana Wynter is movingly sensitive as the wife who finds her world and her marital happiness shaken asunder. Wendy Hillier has a convincing characterization as Peter's sister, whose husband is murdered by the Mau Mau but who rises above her tragedy.

Jap Golfers Making Americans Look Bad

By WILL GRIMLEY

TOKYO (AP) — Sam Snead's blazing bull-eye putter became just another club of cold steel today and a pair of amazing Japanese forged into a two-stroke lead over the United States in the Canada Cup international golf tournament.

The bullish slammer from Rhine Sulphur Springs, W. Va., skyrocketed to a two-over-par 68 after yesterday's 67 and not even a sub-par 71 by partner Jimmy Demaret could salvage the day against the inspired sons of Nippon.

Bobcats-Trojans Clash on Local Field Tonight

Hope's Bobcats, currently rated 10th team in the state, will be trying for a win over 4th ranked Hot Springs when the two teams meet tonight in Hammons Stadium at 8 o'clock.

The Trojans defeated the Bobcats by a 19 to 6 margin last year, although the game was much closer than the score indicated. This will be an important game for both teams but not vital to either.

The Bobcats have everything to gain and only a game to lose. A victory would send them up in the rankings. A loss by the Trojans would be costly in ranking and prestige.

Hot Springs has a fine record this year. They lost to Little Rock 46 to 6; beat Benton 42 to 6 and took Malvern 38 to 18 and slumped Nashville 38 to 7; tied Texarkana 27-all and earlier this week beat North Little Rock 6 to 0.

The Bobcats have won over Fairview. Stamps and Smackover while dropping a 13-12 decision to De Queen. However, the Bobcats missed a couple of games due to flu, one with Crosswell will be played next month, however.

The Cats are in good shape physically and mentally and are in a very good position for an upset.

Probable Starting Lineup: Hope: LE Bill Haire; LT Hoyce Weisenberger; LG Jimmy Porterfield; C Lynn Wiggins; RG Jerry Thurman; RT Jimmy Chambliss; RB Jimmy May; QB Tommy Polk; HB David Watkins; TB Don Booth; FB Steve Crain.

Saturday May Bring More Grid Upsets

By JIM KENSIL
Of The Associated Press

Hurricane Upset ripped through South Carolina yesterday and today hovers over another weekend of college football.

Spawned nationally a week ago which powers such as Michigan State and Minnesota bowed to its force, the big storm turned up down South and the Clemson Tigers, 6-point underdogs, rode with it for a 14-0 victory over South Carolina.

The annual "Big Thursday" contest, played before a record 4,500 persons in Columbia, S. C., ruined any hopes the Gamecocks may have had for the Atlantic Coast Conference Championship.

They are now 0-2 in AC play. Clemson, the defending champion, is 2-2, while Duke and North Carolina State, who clash tomorrow at Raleigh, top the loop with unbeaten records.

A pack of offensive-minded sophomores, guided by quarterback Harvey White, accounted for the Clemson touchdowns, and the first-string seniors, spearheaded by end Ray Masner turned back repeated South Carolina thrusts.

The Tigers TDs came late in the second period on a 15-yard pass. White to halfback Sonny Quesenberry, and in the third period with fullback Rudy Hayes going over from the one, while converted.

Miami, down where storm warnings are getting to be routine conversation, readied for tonight's invasion of Kansas, a 13-point underdog. There is no reason to suspect the Hurricanes won't whip the visiting Jayhawks; but a surprise result would certainly indicate which way the wind will be blowing when the rest of the big boys take the field tomorrow afternoon and night.

Upset may strike anywhere anytime, but if the promising targets hard the most promising targets are the unbeaten giants of Oklahoma, Texas A&M, Iowa, Duke, Auburn, Mississippi and Notre Dame. They are ranked 1 to 7, respectively, in the Associated Press weekly poll. Secretary targets are Michigan State, Army and Louisiana State, No. 8, 9 and 10 nationally and all once-beaten.

Although Colorado has been Oklahoma's most troublesome opponent while the Sooners have run off 44 straight triumphs and 61 straight in Big Eight competition, the Buffaloes, already beaten by Kansas, do not appear to have what it will take at Oklahoma tomorrow.

Neither do Iowa, the ruling Big Ten titholder, nor Army, the East's leading eleven, figure to have difficulty with Northwestern and Virginia, respectively, but elsewhere the ranking teams are juicy prey for the upset.

Texas A&M looks tough, Baylor, and a Southwest Conference throw, the Southwest Conference victory over Duke would give the ACC a big headache, because should N. C. State go on to win the crown, it could not represent the conference in the Orange Bowl. The Wolfpack, ranked 11th nationally, is on NCAA probation.

Auburn, currently riding high in the Southeastern Conference, risks only prestige in a night game against intersectional rival Houston, and Arkansas, still a Southwestern contender, will be looking for some of the same prestige against the SEC's Mississippi.

Louisiana State, an unexpectedly strong member, will have an eye on a member to glance away from opponent Florida in a game that could go either way.

Notre Dame must be wary of Pittsburgh. The Panthers figured high in pre-season pickings, but have been knocked off by Oklahoma and Army.

And Michigan State, the nation's kingly team a week ago before stumbling over Purdue, meets Illinois, the club that took the upset route in whipping Minnesota.

Other stand-out games include: EAST — Penn. Navy, Harvard, Dartmouth, Brown, Rhode Island, Columbia, Lehigh, Boston University, Holy Cross, Colgate, Yale, Cornell, Syracuse, Princeton, Cornell.

SOUTH — Maryland, Tennessee, Tulane, Georgia Tech, Kentucky, Georgia, Alabama, Mississippi.

Flu Postpones Many State Grid Games

By JOHN R. TARR
Of The Associated Press

Influenza has forced postponement of at least eight Arkansas high school football games tonight, but the cream of the schedule—including the epic Little Rock Central-El Dorado meeting at Little Rock—was not affected.

The Tigers and Wildcats, both unbeaten and currently sharing the Big Eight Conference lead, will probably settle the championship tonight. El Dorado has already clinched Pine Bluff and North Little Rock the only other bona fide contenders, and has a title lock if it can snook past Central. The Tigers still must play the Zebras and Northside Wildcats, but neither is expected to give Central more than a good losing fight.

Port Smith goes to Texarkana tonight for another Big Eight game that figures to decide sixth place.

Other Big Eight teams tackle Class AA foes with Hot Springs at Hope, Camden at Pine Bluff and Jonesboro at North Little Rock. Winless Blytheville is idle.

Tonight's postponements include one Class AA conference game—Crosswell at Arkadelphia in Region Four. Other postponements include: Pochontas at Harrisburg; Magnolia at Malvern; Benton at Forrest City; Booneville at Sulphur; Cabot at Atkins; Russellville at Clarksville and Danville at Charleston.

Only two Class AA conference games were left on the books — Rogers at Harrison in Region One and Stuttgart at Helena in Region Two. Harrison is a solid pick to extend its unbeaten streak while the Ricebird-Indian imbroglio is expected to clarify the Region Two title picture. Helena has lost only to favored Forrest City, while Stuttgart is unbeaten in the circuit and holds a key victory over powerful West Memphis.

The postponements assured, too, that at least a pair of the state's unbeaten and untied teams would survive the week end's play. Forrest City has won six straight and Earle, also 6-0, was not scheduled.

Slavs Agree Greece Should Get Cyprus

ATHENS, Greece (AP) — Yugoslavia's Communist government in effect announced its support last night for Greece's claim to Cyprus.

Yugoslav Vice President Evard Kardelj and Greek Premier Constantine Karamanlis in a joint communique called for a rapid solution of the Cyprus issue "within the framework of the United Nations and having in view Cyprus' claims."

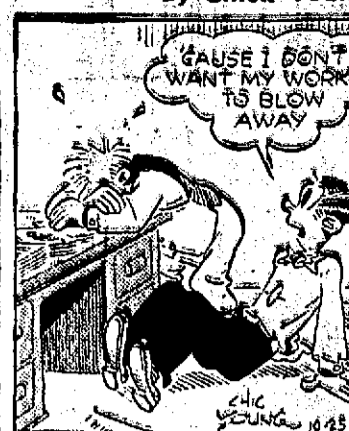

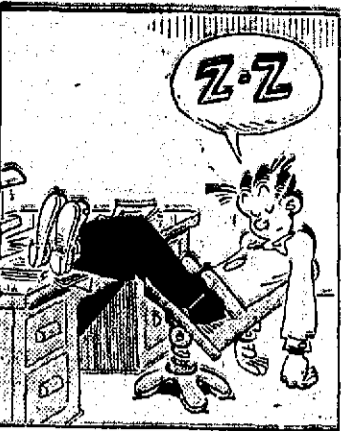

While Greece claiming that a majority of the British island colony's population want to unite with Greece, the Yugoslav endorsement with Greece of "Cyprus' claims" constituted an endorsement of the Greek claim.

Kardelj, who would up a three-day state visit, and Karamanlis also urged revival of the 1947 Balkan Pact between Greece, Yugoslavia and Turkey, Turkish opposition to the Greek claim to Cyprus has stalemated Turkish-Greek cooperation under the pact.

Special attention was given in the talks to the Middle Eastern situation, the communique said.

WINDS of GOD

This is God's world and the soul who expects "smooth sailing" must learn the ways of the "Winds of God." We must know how to chart our course and man the sails. Stop for a moment, as you start every day, and ask the Great Pilot what course He recommends. Be sure you have read the Guide Book for mariners... The Sermon on the Mount. Here, you will learn how to meet the winds and how to make them drive your ship where you are going. You must know how to tack as you face the difficult journey ahead. See that your compass is working and that you have chosen well your passengers... companionship is very important.

In the long ago a dozen men sailed a difficult sea and feared the storm would founder their little craft. But they had asked a master sailor—The Great Pilot—to go with them. When they had to awaken Him to face the storm, they were amazed to hear the command—"Peace, Be Still." but more amazed to see the raging waters calmed under His authority. Their companion made the difference. The Great Pilot will be at your church Sunday when you dock—He is anxious to meet you.

YOU IN THE CHURCH THE CHURCH IN YOU

Character is a by-product of the church. It is here that young and old alike are showered with benedictions that fortify and influence for a better citizenship and a stronger democracy. In the church the ministerial are molding religious character. Statements today declare that the church alone can furnish leadership to handle the affairs of state in these perilous times. There we with our children should go to the church of our choice on Sunday. "You in the Church and the Church in you" form a combination for good. Be a regular CHURCHGOER and a daily BIBLE READER.

Little Tor's Voice Saves His Life
CHELSEA, Mass. (AP)—"I'm here, daddy."
That little phrase saved the life yesterday of 4-year-old Robert Stevens.
Harry Stevens, 36, followed his son's voice and found the youngster trapped in an 18-by-16-inch cubicle of a refrigerator on the third-floor porch of an unoccupied tenement house.
The door was slightly jammed, the father had to wiggle it out of its hinges. The youngster apparently was not affected by the ordeal.
Stevens, his wife Esther, 39, and some 15 neighborhood children had been searching for the tot for nearly an hour when the father heard the muffled cry from an alley and followed it to the porch.

Siamese Twins Can Be Separated
WELLINGTON, Tex. (AP)—Doctors say examination indicates the Esstrada Siamese twins can be safely separated.
The 4-day-old infant girls are joined at the chest and abdomen but Dr. Dale Watkins said they have separate digestive systems.
He said tests also indicate "pretty positively" that the circulatory systems are separate.
This will be the concluding part

George Wingard of Norman will
